

Bart Meyns, MD, PhD

Dr. Bart Meyns is a Professor and Chief of Cardiac Surgery at the University Hospitals Leuven, Belgium. Professor, Dr. Meyns has been affiliated with K.U.Leuven since receiving his medical degree there. He also was a general surgery resident at RD&E Hospital, Exeter, UK and has been a member of the K.U.Leuven staff since 1993. In addition to his medical degree, Dr. Meyns received a Ph.D in 1997 with his thesis, "Ventricular Support with Miniature Rotary Blood Pumps," one of his primary interests, among clinical applications of mechanical support systems, congenital heart surgery and coronary surgery. He is a member of numerous international and European Societies and is a Member of the Board of Governors for the International Society for Rotary Blood Pumps and European Society of Artificial Organs.