

Frans Van de Werf, MD, PhD, FESC, FACC, FAHA

Frans Van de Werf is professor and chairman of the Department of Cardiovascular medicine at the University Hospitals Leuven, Belgium.

He has served as a visiting professor in a number of institutions, including the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, Massachusetts General Hospital, Harvard Medical School, and the Mayo Clinic. Dr. Van de Werf is editor-in-chief of the European Heart Journal and has served on the editorial boards of many journals including the New England Journal of Medicine, Circulation, Nature Clinical Practice, International Journal of Cardiology and Coronary Artery Disease . He is a past recipient of the International Roche Chair in Cardiology and the 5-yearly Joseph Maisin award of the Fund of Scientific Research of Belgium and a past president of the Belgian Society of Cardiology. He served as the chairman of the European Society of Cardiology program committee for the annual congresses of 1997 and 1998 .In November 2006 he gave the Paul Dudley White International Lecture at the Scientific Sessions of the American Heart Association in Chicago.

Dr. Van de Werf's research interests include coronary reperfusion, antithrombotic therapies, left ventricular function, and cardiac imaging. As chairman of the Publications Committee he serves on the Board of the European Society of Cardiology . He is a member of the European Society of Cardiology Subcommittee for Survey of Acute Coronary Syndromes and of the American Heart Association Subcommittee for Acute Cardiac Care. He is also the chairman of the European Society of Cardiology Task Force for updating the guidelines for treatment of ST-elevation acute myocardial infarction. He is currently a fellow of the American College of Cardiology and an international fellow of the American Heart Association. He is the author or co-author of more than 450 peer-reviewed articles.